SOCIAL SERVICE AGENCY SURVEY

JULY 1977

For the Nine-County San Francisco Bay Area

Special Needs Program

Metropolitan Transportation Commission
Hotel Claremont, Berkeley, California

Enclosed is a copy of the final report, Social Service Agency Survey: Nine County San Francisco Bay Area. It describes the transportation services which are provided through human service programs in the counties of Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano and Sonoma.

Following the release in October 1976 of the draft of this report, we received many comments and quite a few corrections from agencies which were surveyed -- and some which were not. We have tried to accomodate these changes. If, however, you find errors, please contact Bob Levine at (415) 849-3223, Ext. 80.

Thank you.

PREFACE

This report presents the findings of the 1976 telephone survey of social service agencies in the nine Bay Area counties. Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) conducted the survey in an attempt to formulate a comprehensive inventory of transportation services available to elderly and handicapped persons in the region. The report will be updated periodically. The data are an important element in the public transit operators' increasing interest in providing transportation to these user groups in their service area. The inventory will be useful for coordination of services between various transit operators. It is assumed that social agencies will also find the inventory useful for coordination and possible referral.

WE NEED YOUR HELP

The completeness of the inventory depends on your help. If you find errors or omissions, call us at (415) 849-3223, x80, so that corrections and additions may be made.

Thank you.

SECTION ONE

INTRODUCTION

Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) conducted a telephone survey of social service agencies in the San Francisco region to determine the transportation resources currently available to elderly and handicapped persons through such institutions. The survey was made between July 1 and September 1, 1976. This report describes the process, procedures and findings of the survey. It is divided into two sections. Section One describes the background to MTC's Special Needs Study and the organization of the telephone survey. Section Two gives the findings and conclusions at both a county and regional level.

Metropolitan Transportation Commission

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission was established by Assembly Bill 363, passed by the California Legislature and approved by the Governor on September 14, 1970. The act, as amended, sets forth the responsibilities of the Commission, which are to provide comprehensive regional transportation planning for the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area, encompassing Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano and Sonoma Counties.

As the regional transportation planning agency for the Bay Area, MTC's basic responsibilities are:

- a. To prepare, adopt and maintain a Regional Transportation Plan for the region;
- b. To coordinate transportation planning with comprehensive land use, environmental, social and economic planning done by other agencies in the region;
- c. To review and approve transportation projects and applications for funds from local governments and transit districts in the region to federal or state governments if the applications contain a transportation element of any kind;
- d. To maintain regional eligibility for federal grants-in-aid for transportation;
- e. To administer the Transportation Development Act (TDA) transit-aid funds in the Bay Area;
- f. To set toll bridge rates on bridges owned by the State of California.¹

Of particular importance to the subject of this report are items (a) and (b) above, which direct MTC to consider the transportation needs of the elderly and handicapped in the planning process. Further strength was added to this direction by the adoption of the Regional Transportation Plan in June 1973 (as amended) which states in part that "... transportation programs shall be designed to help solve the transit problems of the handicapped, children, aged and other non-drivers."¹

Special Needs Program, Phase I

The Special Needs Program of MTC was developed to address elderly, handicapped and low-income transportation needs. Efforts to date have concentrated primarily on elderly and handicapped transit needs, and are divided into two phases. The first phase, completed in February 1975, was a region-wide overview of the legal framework, an estimation of target groups including trip-making characteristics, and a discussion of the roles of the major contributors to transportation solutions: social agencies, public carriers, and government. Conclusions and recommendations were developed based upon the information gathered in Phase I of the Special Needs Study. These are available in detail in Special Transit Needs Study - Phase I (MTC Implementation Planning Division 1975).

As part of the Phase I effort, the consulting firm of Crain and Associates conducted a survey of 20% of the social service agencies throughout the Bay Area. A questionnaire was designed and mailed to a randomly selected sample of 780 social agencies. The purpose was to determine the transportation needs and resources of social agencies. The results of the survey are contained in Para-Transit Survey, Component of MTC Special Transit Service Needs Study (Crain, Flynn & Stoffel, April, 1974). The survey will be discussed in further detail in appropriate sections of this report.

Special Needs Program, Phase II

Phase II has brought continuing activity to MTC's special needs efforts. Of primary importance was the adoption of MTC Resolution No. 299 (Attachment A), which requires the transit operators in the Bay Area to show "good faith" efforts towards providing transit services accessible to the elderly and handicapped by July 1, 1976. Additionally, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration issued guidelines on April 30, 1976 (Attachment B) which define the goals of the federal government in regard to elderly and handicapped transportation. Subsequent federal guidelines make it clear that the needs of elderly and handicapped people must be met in a meaningful way.

The survey of social service agencies described in this document is therefore the result of several forces: the MTC continuing commitment to reasonably accessible transportation, the recently enacted federal regulations and increased local awareness. This description of existing transportation services available to handicapped and elderly persons through human service programs is necessary to support the studies which will satisfy existing and proposed regulations on elderly and handicapped transportation.

ORGANIZATION

Process

The telephone survey of social service agencies was conducted in June, July and August of 1976. The survey had three goals: to provide a current inventory of social service agencies in the Bay Area and their transportation needs; to update the Crain and Associates work; and to help public transit operators comply with MTC and federal requirements. As used in this survey, the term "social service agency" covers a wide variety ranging from individual church groups to departments of California state government.

Sources

Each county was contacted to obtain a current directory of social service organizations. In all cases, counties were able to provide directories with names of agencies (Figure 1). However, they varied as to completeness and publication date. The older directories had a large amount of out-of-date information, including disconnected phone numbers and incorrect addresses. Also, some of the directories were prepared during a time when public program funding at the federal level was severely restricted, the result of which may be that new agencies may exist which were not listed, and therefore not called.

The directories contained listings for their own counties and usually some listings which were located in other counties. Cross-checks between directories were made to ensure that agencies were not called twice or left out. Each agency was assigned a unique I.D. number, the first digit of which indicates the county in which the agency is located. Figure 2 shows the county/ID equivalency.

As each directory was received at MTC, it was edited. Agencies which were described as having services which entailed personal contact were called. This included a variety of agencies; hospitals, information and referral agencies, funding agencies and counseling sources. Listings which were described as not providing direct personal service were not called. This primarily included telephone services such as hot lines or crisis lines, and agencies whose sole function was investigation of funding resources. As these kinds of agencies did not offer any kind of service where a client needed to get to the service, it was felt that the transportation needs would be minimal. Where there was doubt about an agency's function, it was called.

The survey is only as good as its sources. Out-of-date information, inaccurate descriptions of services provided and unlisted agencies were encountered in all directories. There are probably many agencies which were not listed and do provide transportation but were not called. MTC urges your cooperation in making the inventory complete: call us if you find mistakes.

Format

A copy of the instrument used follows (Figure 3). It was developed from the questionnaire used by Crain and Associates in their survey done for MTC in 1974. It was also designed with ease of computer tabulation in mind.

The form was satisfactory in most respects. It was found to have insufficient response spaces in questions 10a--spaces 27-28, 10d and 10e. Also, the answers to question 10d were quite difficult to ascertain from many agencies. Not only do most agencies not keep accurate transportation records, but the term "one-way passenger trips" was confusing to most respondents. This problem might be lessened if 10d and 10e had been reversed in order and if the questions had asked for information based upon "an average day" rather than "last week." Also, it became apparent that a great deal of confusion existed on question 10c. In future surveys that question should be rephrased to read, "Are any of your vehicles equipped with wheelchair lifts or ramps, and tie-down devices?" In February 1977, as part of the finalization of the draft report, follow-up contact was made with those agencies which had answered that they did have vehicles equipped for wheelchair users. Specific questions were asked about whether and how many vehicles had lifts, ramps and tie-downs. The corrected responses are contained in this report.

Personnel

The telephoning was conducted by five persons. During the first six weeks of the survey there was one full-time caller and two half-time callers. This was increased to two full-time and two half-time callers in the last half of the project.

Three of the people had worked on previous MTC projects and were therefore familiar with the terms used on the form. Individuals were "walked through" the form, made several calls under supervision to bring out any problems, and then proceeded on their own.

Timing

The survey was begun on June 28, 1976 and terminated on August 18, 1976. Calls were placed between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The surveyors were instructed to make three attempts with each agency to complete the information required. After three attempts, whatever information had been obtained was recorded and that agency was not called again. In some cases no data were recorded and in some cases the information was incomplete.

SECTION TWO

FINDINGS

Results

Information was originally obtained from 1604 agencies. The directories listed approximately 2100 agencies, some of which were deliberately not called for the reasons discussed previously. The callers were unable to obtain any information from 29 agencies after three attempts to contact them. Given all these factors, the response rate to the surveyors was approximately 80 percent. Following the release of the draft version of this report in October 1976, many comments were received from agencies. Some simply wanted to correct information; others wanted to be removed from the study. The end result was that 123 agencies which were contacted are not included in the analysis, giving a total number of 1481 agencies which are part of this report (see Table I, Scope of the Survey, for further details).

Most agencies were very cooperative, although there was often difficulty in finding the appropriate person to answer the questions. Another major difficulty already mentioned was the lack or inaccuracy of transportation records kept by agencies. This may in part be due to the fact that transportation is not the primary function of the majority of these agencies.

The information was keypunched and processed using both the SPSS and QUEST programs.¹ The data were aggregated by county, as well as being obtained by agency name. Appendix C gives a list in alphabetical order of all agencies which were analyzed.

There is a brief discussion of each county which follows. It describes the findings of the survey which pertain to the particular county. Table II, Transportation Services, gives an overview of the nine counties, the region, and what transportation services are provided, by county. The conclusion to be reached from this table is that there is a great amount of transportation being provided by social service agencies in the San Francisco Bay Area, and that these services are being provided in many different ways.

Table III, Comparison of Population and Vehicles, compares the population of each county, as a percent of the total regional population, with the number of vehicles which are operated in the county. This was done to see if there was any correlation between the population (i.e., potential clients) and the amount of available paratransit. San Francisco has the highest number of vehicles available with 577, which is 39.3% of the regional total. As this county has 15.46% of the region's population, it can be seen that San Francisco is in the best position, in terms of the number of vehicles potentially available to the population. San Mateo County, with 3.3% of the vehicles, and 12.02% of the population, is in the worst position with regard to available paratransit.

COUNTY FINDINGS

Alameda County

In Alameda County, 175 agencies were contacted. Of these, 61, or 34.9%, own their own vehicles.

Seven agencies responded that they have a combined total of 11 vehicles which are equipped for wheelchair users.

In an average week, 8,621 passengers were provided with transportation of one sort or another by the agencies, of whom 36%, or 3,115, were elderly or handicapped. Individuals made an average of 1.70 trips per week. A total of 14,632 one-way passenger trips are made in any given week.

Alameda County agencies were asked whether or not transportation was a problem for their clients. Approximately 48% responded in the affirmative.

Contra Costa County

Agencies called in Contra Costa County numbered 113, of which 24, or 21.2%, own vehicles. In total, 93 vehicles are owned by these agencies. However, according to the updated information received, no agencies own vehicles which are equipped for wheelchair users.

These agencies transport 10,845 passengers per week, of whom 2,051, or 18.9%, are elderly or handicapped. Each individual makes approximately 1.99 trips per week. This was determined from the fact that 21,590 one-way passenger trips are provided per week.

In Contra Costa County, over two-thirds (66.7%) of the agencies queried responded that transportation is a problem for their clients.

Marin County

In Marin County, 113 agencies were called. Twenty responded that they own vehicles, which constitutes 17.8% of those in the county that were contacted.

There are 46 vehicles operated by social service agencies in Marin County, 1 of which is equipped for wheelchair users.

Transportation is provided to 2,990 persons in an average week by Marin agencies. Elderly and handicapped persons make up 1,298 of this total, or 43.4%. A total of 6,444 one-way passenger trips are provided in an average week.

Over half of the agencies responding to the telephone survey (56.6%) found that transportation was a problem for their clients.

Napa County

Napa County produced the lowest number of contacts. There were 20 agencies which were called in this county, four of which own vehicles. These agencies operate 29 vehicles, the majority of which are owned by Napa State Hospital.

Transportation services are provided to 1,050 persons in an average week, 201 of which, or 19.1%, are elderly or handicapped. Approximately 2,324 one-way passenger trips are made per week, or an average of 2.21 trips per week by each individual.

One agency in Napa County owns vehicles which are equipped for wheelchair users. There are four such vehicles which this agency operates.

The respondents in Napa County indicated that transportation is a problem for clients of 42.9% of the agencies called.

San Francisco

The City and County of San Francisco had 377 agencies which were called during the telephone survey. Of these, 114, or 30.2%, own their own vehicles. There are 577 vehicles operated, by far the largest number found in any county. The Synanon Foundation owns 100 of these vehicles.

Vehicles which are equipped for wheelchair users number approximately 8 in the City and County and are owned by four agencies.

Approximately 44.2% of the agencies surveyed in San Francisco found that transportation was a problem for their clients.

There are 19,068 people who are provided with transportation by social agencies in San Francisco in an average week. Of these, 46.1%, or 8,787, are elderly or handicapped. There are 44,668 one-way passenger trips made during an average week, indicating a trip rate of 2.34 trips per person per week.

San Mateo

There were 124 agencies called in San Mateo County. Twenty-six of these, or 21%, own vehicles. There are 48 vehicles in operation in San Mateo County, one of which is equipped for wheelchair users.

Almost two-thirds (61.8%) of the agencies in San Mateo County found that their clients had problems with transportation.

In an average week, 7,215 persons are provided with transportation, 2,985 of which are elderly or handicapped. This is approximately 41.4% of all persons carried. Individuals made an average of 1.69 trips per week, for a total of 12,155 one-way passenger trips per week.

Santa Clara County

Santa Clara County social service agencies which were called as part of the survey numbered 251. Of these, 61, or 24.3%, own vehicles. Six of these agencies own vehicles which are equipped for wheelchair users. In total, there are 265 vehicles operating in the county, eight of which can accommodate wheelchairs.

Over half (60.1%) of the agencies surveyed remarked that transportation was a problem for their clients.

Transportation is provided to 18,341 persons during an average week, who make an average of 2.2 trips per week. Approximately 40,382 one-way passenger trips occur via social service transportation in a given week. Of the total number of persons being served, 4,751, or 25.9%, are elderly or handicapped.

Solano County

In Solano County, 38 agencies were called during the telephone survey. There are 12 agencies, or 31.6%, which own vehicles. There are 59 vehicles, 7 of which are equipped specially for wheelchairs. The special vehicles are owned by one agency.

Transportation services appear to be more limited in this county than in the other eight Bay Area counties. This becomes apparent when examining the number of persons carried, and trip characteristics.

Approximately 1601 persons are carried by social agencies in an average week, 70.1% of which, or 1,122, are elderly or handicapped. This figure emphasizes the pressing need of rural elderly and handicapped people for transportation of any sort. A total of 6,082 one-way passenger trips are recorded for an average week. This means that individuals make approximately 3.80 trips per week. This is a very high figure, compared to that found in other counties. It may be that this figure reflects the minimal public transit available in Solano County and hence the greater demand for the service which is available. Agency clients experience problems with transportation as reflected by the fact that 64.1% of the agencies in Solano County responded that their clients had such problems.

Sonoma County

Sonoma County directories yielded 270 agencies which were called in the course of the telephone survey, 37 of which own vehicles. Three of the agencies own vehicles which can accommodate wheelchairs. In the county there are 86 vehicles, 3 of which are specially equipped for wheelchairs.

Sonoma County was the only one surveyed in which the listing of licensed residential care homes was available during the term of the survey. Over 70 of the agencies called were care facilities. It was assumed that individually-run care homes would have personal-use vehicles only, and therefore they are not included in the list of agencies which own vehicles, or in the analysis of the transportation results. Only 38.1% of all the agencies surveyed responded that their clients had problems with transportation. This comparatively low percentage may be a reflection of the number of care homes which have vehicles readily available for transportation of their residents.

Transportation is provided to 30,852 persons in an average week. Of these, 11,083, or 35.9%, are elderly or handicapped. Individuals recorded 61,819 one-way passenger trips in an average week, which indicates a weekly trip rate of 2.00.

The numbers of people carried are one indicator of the demand on paratransit. Table IV, Passenger Statistics, describes the number of passengers transported, how many were elderly and/or handicapped, and the trip-making characteristics of these riders. One interesting figure is the number of one-way trips in Solano County (3.80), which is quite a bit higher than even the regional average. This may be a reflection of the fact that Solano County did not have any public transportation at the time of the survey with the exception of the limited services in Vallejo and Fairfield. Rural low-income, elderly and handicapped people are thus more dependent upon friends and whatever social service transportation is available.

REGIONAL FINDINGS

Regional Transportation

Throughout the region, 1481 agencies were analyzed during the telephone survey. Those agencies called included school districts, licensed care homes, welfare and human resource agencies, and others. The respondents indicated that 352 agencies or 23.8%, owned their own vehicles, 24 of which own vehicles which are equipped for wheelchairs. There are 1470 agency-owned vehicles, 36 of which are specially equipped.

Approximately half (50.1%) of the agencies responded that their clients found transportation to be a problem.

A further comparison of services provided can be made through Figure 4. This shows the adjusted frequencies of transportation services provided. Also contained are, where applicable, the frequencies obtained by Crain and Associates in their 1974 survey. The most dramatic increase between the two surveys is that of usage by agencies of other agencies' vehicles. This may be due to the fact that more federal and state programs have become available which make possible the purchase of vehicles. As more agencies purchase vehicles, more vehicles become available for loan to other agencies.

Crain and Associates estimated that there were 800 vehicles operating in the Bay Area. The MTC survey total of 1470 vehicles is an increase of 83.8% in two years. However, 23% of the agencies contacted own these vehicles, compared to 20% of the agencies in 1974. One conclusion which can be drawn is that the number of vehicles owned by social agencies is increasing substantially but the number of agencies which own those vehicles is not increasing at the same rate.

The abovementioned services are provided to approximately 100,583 persons in the region during an average week. Over one-third, or 35,393, are elderly or handicapped. There are 210,096 one-way passenger trips made per week via the social service transportation systems. This indicates an average of 2.09 trips per week per individual. This figure is within the range of trip rates determined for these user groups in other studies.

Agency Characteristics

Transportation is a side-line for most of the agencies called. They found it necessary to provide transportation because of the inability of their clients to use their services without transportation. MTC wanted to find out what types of services are the primary responsibilities of these agencies. The survey asked questions about what human services the agency provided, above and beyond transportation. The results are documented in Figure 5. The data were tabulated in the following manner. First, the services provided were recorded for all agencies regardless of client characteristics. Second, agencies which serve elderly persons were isolated and their services recorded. Third, those agencies which serve handicapped persons were isolated and the information recorded in the same manner as for the elderly. There is considerable overlap between these categories, but Figure 5 does serve to show which services are provided by agencies to three client groups. The percentage indicates what percent of all agencies provide the service named.

An examination was made of the function of the agencies and whether their clients found transportation to be a problem. Figure 6 indicates that clients of agencies which function as senior citizen centers have the greatest transportation difficulties. Each percent shows the number of agencies, out of all agencies which provide this given service, whose clients have transportation difficulties.

The preceding discussion has focused on those agencies which own their own vehicles. However, as was mentioned previously, there are other kinds of transportation which social services are providing other than that with their own vehicles. Table V, Transportation Services by Agency, describes the transportation services which are provided by each agency which was contacted in the course of the survey. It is apparent that many agencies provide more than one kind of transportation. What this means in terms of duplicated work, staff time and agency funding diverted to support these duplicative services, is easy to see. This table simply confirms the suspicion that substantial resources, in terms of time and money, are being spent on transportation by agencies, most of whose major function is nutrition, mental health, senior citizen programs and other human services -- not transportation.

The data contained under "V28 'Uses Equipped Vehicles'" describe two sets of information. That column shows which agencies actually own vehicles equipped for use by people in wheelchairs. It also shows which agencies have access to a vehicle which can accommodate wheelchair users, either through another agency, volunteer services, or another way.

CONCLUSIONS

Several conclusions were reached through the telephone survey. Of primary importance is the confirmation that there are many people in the Bay Area for whom public transportation is inaccessible. This may be because the fare is too high for the low-income client, or because of lack of information, or because the vehicles themselves are physically impossible for some persons to board. To that point, it was determined that 48.5% of the agencies queried have clients who are unable to enter a public bus. There is, apparently, a body of the public whose transportation needs are not at this time being met by public transportation. This survey will provide some of the information needed by public transit operators to begin to meet those needs and thus meet federal and regional requirements for elderly and handicapped transportation.

Another realization is that there is a plethora of social agencies providing transportation services. More cooperation and coordination would create a more efficient system. In this project, both MTC and the public operators can, and should, give assistance. The telephone survey, in the process of updating the Crain and Associates report and developing an inventory, established the growth rate of vehicle ownership by social agencies. Transportation clients can be best served if the increased number of vehicles are put to the most efficient and coordinated use.

to Handicapped Persons

METROPOLITAN TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

RESOLUTION NO. 299

WHEREAS, the Declaration of Intent of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's (MTC's) Regional Transportation Plan (RTP) states that "The Commission expresses its special concern for the mobility needs of the socially and economically disadvantaged, the handicapped, the young and the elderly, and intends that the needs of these groups be given high priority in the development and implementation of the Plan," and RTP Objective I and Policies 1.3, 4.1, 4.4, 4.5, and 4.7 reflect this concern; and

WHEREAS, as defined in Section 16(d) of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, "handicapped person" means any individual who, by reason of illness, injury, age, congenital malfunction or other permanent or temporary incapacity or disability, is unable without special facilities or special planning or design to utilize mass transportation facilities and services as effectively as persons who are not so affected; and

WHEREAS, in the San Francisco Bay Area, with the exception of certain facilities provided by BART, most of the public transportation services are not reasonably accessible to handicapped persons, although transit operators have adopted uniform procedures for identifying handicapped persons for the purpose of qualifying for reduced fares; and

WHEREAS, there are many private, nonprofit, and paratransit agencies that are currently providing transportation services to handicapped persons; and

WHEREAS, there is a potential for increasing the availability of accessible transportation services for handicapped persons and the effectiveness of such services through closer coordination and cooperation between the MTC, operators of public mass transportation services, and private, nonprofit and paratransit agencies currently providing or with the capability of providing transportation services for handicapped persons; and

WHEREAS, Chapter I of Title 23 and Chapter VI of Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations require that each urbanized area, as a condition to the receipt of federal capital or operating assistance, have a continuing, cooperative, and comprehensive transportation planning process that results in plans and programs consistent with the comprehensive planned development of the urbanized area; and

WHEREAS, federal regulations also provide for the governor of each state to designate the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) responsible for cooperatively carrying out transportation planning and programming and to perform the functions required by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-95, "Evaluation, Review, and Coordination of Federal Assistance Programs and Projects," November 13, 1973, as amended; and

WHEREAS, the MTC is a statutorily created regional Transportation Planning Agency pursuant to Section 2, Title 7.1, commencing with Section 66500 of the Government Code, Chapter 891, Statutes of 1970 (AB 363); and

WHEREAS, in accordance with OMB Circular A-95 there is currently a Joint Memorandum of Understanding between the state, the MTC, and the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG), whereby all A-95 projects involving a significant transportation element are referred to the MTC for comment; and

WHEREAS, the MPO, in cooperation with the state and publicly owned operators of mass transportation services, shall be responsible for carrying out the urban transportation planning process and for developing the planning work programs, transportation plan, and the Transportation Improvement Program (TIP) as required by Federal Department of Transportation (DOT) regulations set forth in the September 17, 1975 edition of the Federal Register; and

WHEREAS, the urban transportation planning process shall, among other things:

- (1) Provide for the consideration of social, economic, and environmental effects.
- (2) Be consistent with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Title VI assurance executed by each state under 23 U.S.C. 324 and 29 U.S.C. 794, which insure that no person shall on the ground of race, color, sex, national origin, or physical handicap be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination under any program receiving federal assistance from the Department of Transportation.

- (3) Include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and services that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons pursuant to Section 16 of the UMT Act (49 U.S.C. 1612) and Section 165(b) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended.
- (4) Include consideration of existing private mass transportation services; and

WHEREAS, federal legislation (49 U.S.C. 1612, Section 17(a)) pertaining to the planning and design of mass transportation facilities reads in part, "It is hereby declared to be the national policy that elderly and handicapped persons have the same right as other persons to utilize mass transportation facilities and services; that special efforts shall be made in the planning and design of mass transportation facilities and services so that the availability to elderly and handicapped persons of mass transportation which they can effectively utilize will be assured; and that all federal programs offering assistance in the field of mass transportation shall contain provisions implementing this policy;" and

WHEREAS, state legislation (the Transportation Development

Act of 1971, as amended) states as a part of the Legislative Findings and Declarations, "Public transportation systems provide as essential public service which must be available at a charge to the user which will encourage maximum utilization of the agencies of this service for the benefit of the total transportation system of the state, and which will not deprive the elderly, the handicapped, the youth, and the citizens of limited means of the ability to freely utilize the service;" and

WHEREAS, Section 54.1 of the California Civil Code states in part "Blind persons, visually handicapped persons, and other physically disabled persons shall be entitled to full and equal access as other members of the general public to accommodations, advantages, facilities, and privileges of all common carriers, airplanes, motor vehicles, railroad trains, motor buses, streetcars, boats, or any public conveyances or modes of transportation," and

WHEREAS, new legislation or amendments to existing legislation may be required to realize the full potential of the operators of public mass transportation services, concerned public and nonprofit agencies, and paratransit operators for making transportation services reasonably accessible to the handicapped in full compliance with the intent of federal and state statutes; and

WHEREAS, the MTC, as the designated MPO in the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area and the administrator in the region for the Transportation Development Act, has both the responsibility and the authority to cooperatively plan with the operators of public mass transportation, concerned public and nonprofit agencies, and paratransit operators for the orderly development and implementation of reasonably accessible transportation services for handicapped persons; and

WHEREAS, making transportation services reasonably accessible to support MTC's policy that handicapped persons shall be afforded equal opportunity to have economical access to employment, social services, and recreational activities may best be accomplished through innovative transportation programs involving public mass transportation operators, concerned private and nonprofit agencies, and paratransit operators; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that it shall be the policy of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission that operators of public mass transportation systems shall be responsible for the development and implementation of programs, in coordination and cooperation with the MTC, appropriate private and nonprofit agencies, and paratransit operators, which will serve to make transportation services reasonably accessible to handicapped persons throughout the area comprising the established boundaries of the public mass transportation operator, including provisions for transfers to and between public and private operators of transportation services; and be it further

RESOLVED, that the Overall Work Program for fiscal year 1976-77 will include, and give priority to, essential technical planning studies to support the development and implementation of programs by public mass transportation operators which are consistent with MTC's goals, objectives, and policies for making transportation services reasonably accessible to handicapped persons as specified in MTC's adopted Regional Transportation Plan; and be it further

RESOLVED, that effective with fiscal year 1977-78, commencing July 1, 1977, the MTC shall not endorse or approve a federal or state transportation grant request or allocate Transportation Development Act monies or other transit-aid funds administered by the MTC in support of public mass transportation operators within the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area unless the claimant has demonstrated, to the satisfaction of the MTC, reasonable "good faith" progress to provide transportation services to handicapped persons throughout the claimant's service area or legislatively established boundaries, whichever is larger.

CHAPTER VI—URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

PART 613—PLANNING ASSISTANCE AND STANDARDS

Urban Transportation Programming for Elderly and Handicapped Persons

The purpose of this document is to issue a final regulation which states additional criteria for the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator's project approvals under 23 CFR 450.320 and to issue advisory information on that regulation.

Also being issued today are the Urban Mass Transportation Administration's elderly and handicapped regulations (41 FR 18236) and a Joint UMTA-Federal Highway Administration issuance providing advisory information on urban transportation planning for elderly and handicapped persons (41 FR 18238). Since the programming regulation and advisory information being issued by this document have a close relationship to the Joint UMTA-FHWA issuance described above, the preamble to the latter material, published at page 18235 of this edition of the Federal Register, is incorporated into this preamble.

In consideration of the foregoing and under the authority of section 16 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1612), section 165 (b) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended (23 U.S.C. 142 nt.), section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 794), and delegation of authority by the Secretary of Transportation at 49 CFR 1.51, chapter VI of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding a new section as set forth below, and the advisory information also set forth below is added to 49 CFR Part 613, Subpart B, as an appendix.

Effective Date: This regulation and advisory information are effective on May 31, 1976.

Issued on April 27, 1976.

ROBERT E. PATRICELLI,
Urban Mass Transportation
Administrator.

Section 613.204 and an appendix to 49 CFR Part 613, Subpart B, are added as set forth below:

§ 613.204 Additional criteria for Urban Mass Transportation Administrator's approvals under 23 CFR 450.320.

The Urban Mass Transportation Administrator will grant project approvals pursuant to 23 CFR 450.320(a)(3) only if:

(a) The urban transportation planning process exhibits satisfactory special efforts in planning public mass transportation facilities and services that can be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons; and

(b) The annual element of the transportation improvement program developed pursuant to 23 CFR 450.116 and submitted after September 30, 1976, contains projects or project elements designed to benefit elderly and handicapped persons, specifically including wheelchair users and those with semilambulatory capabilities; and

(c) After September 30, 1977, reasonable progress has been demonstrated in implementing previously programmed projects.

APPENDIX

ADVISORY INFORMATION ON THE URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ADMINISTRATION'S REQUIREMENTS ON PROGRAMING FOR ELDERLY AND HANDICAPPED PERSONS UNDER 49 CFR 613.204

Pursuant to the planning requirements established for urbanized areas in title 23 and the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) have previously jointly issued regulations (23 CFR Part 450 and 49 CFR Part 613) that require the urban transportation planning process to include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and services that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons. They have also issued a supplementary statement which provides advisory information on the special efforts planning requirements (appendix to 23 CFR Part 450, Subpart A, published in this edition of the Federal Register). The Urban Mass Transportation Administration has also issued a regulation (49 CFR 613.204) which requires special efforts in the programming of projects. The purpose of this statement is to provide advisory information on that programming regulation.

As a result of special efforts in planning, projects designed to benefit elderly and handicapped persons, including projects designed specifically to benefit wheelchair users and those with semilambulatory capabilities, should appear in the annual element of transportation improvement programs submitted to UMTA after September 30, 1976. The term "projects" is meant to include significant features of larger projects (e.g., level-change mechanisms on full-size buses), as well as specially designed services and improvements in the coordination of existing services and resources. "Projects" includes payment of current operating costs of previously purchased wheelchair-accessible equipment and includes payment of expenses associated with indirect methods of providing service, such as subsidies to reduce taxi fares for wheelchair users or trip coupons provided directly to wheelchair users.

Projects funded by UMTA under section 16(b)(2) may be identified as deriving from local special efforts to meet the needs of wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons only to the extent that the following four conditions are met: (1) the service and vehicles serve wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons; (2) the service meets a priority need identified in this planning process; (3) the service is not restricted to a particularized organizational or institutional clientele; and (4) any fares charged are comparable to those which are charged on standard transit buses for trips of similar length.

The coordination of existing transportation available for wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons, and funds which support the provision or purchase of such transportation, provided by the transit operators, governmental health and welfare agencies, and private nonprofit organizations may be identified as a project deriving from local special efforts. If the service and resources thus coordinated meet the four conditions for eligible section 16(b)(2) services (see above) and appear in the transportation improvement program, then those services and resources themselves may be identified as deriving from local special efforts.

Transportation improvement programs submitted to UMTA should identify those projects that result from the wheelchair user aspect of the elderly and handicapped special efforts requirement. Compliance with the fixed facilities section of the UMTA elderly and handicapped regulations (49 CFR 609.13) should not be identified as deriving from local special efforts. On the other hand, efforts which go beyond what the fixed facilities section requires (e.g., making an existing subway station wheelchair accessible when the fixed facility regulation does not so require) may be part of the local special effort.

UMTA will not specify a program design to meet the "special efforts" requirement. However, the following examples are illustrative of a level of effort that will be deemed to satisfy this requirement with respect to wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons:

1. A program for wheelchair users and semilambulatory handicapped persons that will involve the expenditure of an average annual dollar amount equivalent to a minimum of five percent of the section 5 apportionment to the urbanized area. These "five percent funds" may be derived from sources other than section 5. The term "average" permits lower expenditure years to be balanced by higher expenditure years but does not permit an initial delay in implementing projects. The term "section 5 apportionment" refers to UMTA's formula apportionment for areas with a population of 200,000 or more and to the Governor's apportionment for areas with a population under 200,000. Projects that qualify as local "special efforts" for wheelchair users and other semilambulatory persons under the initial paragraphs of this advisory information would be counted in computing the five percent.

2. Purchase of only wheelchair-accessible new fixed route equipment until one-half of the fleet is accessible, or, in the alternative, provision of a substitute service that would provide comparable coverage and service levels.

3. A system, of any design, that would assure that every wheelchair user or semilambulatory person in the urbanized area would have public transportation available if requested for 10 round-trips per week at fares comparable to those which are charged on standard transit buses for trips of similar length, within the service area of the public transportation authority. The system could, for example, provide trip coupons to individuals who would then purchase the needed service.

These examples are illustrative of a level of effort that will satisfy the "special efforts" requirement. They are not regulatory, standards or minimums, neither do they exhaust all valid approaches. They are meant to guide the development of local public transportation opportunities for wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons that in fact meet a significant fraction of the identified need within a reasonable time.

Title 23—Highways

CHAPTER I—FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

PART 450—PLANNING ASSISTANCE AND STANDARDS

Urban Transportation Planning for Elderly and Handicapped Persons

The purpose of this document is to add a new section to the appendix to 23 CFR Part 450, Subpart A. This new section provides advisory information on urban transportation planning for elderly and handicapped persons. (Other material on transportation for elderly and handicapped persons, issued by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA), is being published today at 41 FR 18234 and 41 FR 18236.)

On February 26, 1975, UMTA published proposed regulations regarding transportation for elderly and handicapped persons in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 8314). The proposed regulations included a planning section on which UMTA received extensive comments. Generally, there was concern over the level of detail that seemed to be implied. Many of the comments from the planning community expressed the fear that the cost of carrying out the planning regulations would exceed the UMTA resources available to support such activity. Several comments from the handicapped community expressed the concern that carrying out a highly detailed planning process might have the effect of delaying the institution of service.

Many comments received both at the public hearings and on the docket indicated that elderly consumer organizations are principally concerned with general improvements in public transportation service and with minor equipment modifications that will make use of standard transit equipment easier for persons with physical impairments associated with aging. UMTA's own human factors evaluation carried on in connection with the TRANSBUS project supports this view. For the next generation of buses, expected to be deliverable within the next one to two years, UMTA is mandating, in regulations being issued today amending 49 CFR Chapter VI, step risers that do not exceed eight inches (approximately the architectural standard used in buildings). In addition, those regulations will mandate a variety of other vehicle features designed to make transit more accessible to ambulatory elderly and handicapped persons.

The planning requirements themselves have been recast in the form of a joint UMTA/FHWA issuance providing advisory information on the scope and objectives of the elderly and handicapped requirement of the joint planning regulations, and a program implementation regulation that states additional criteria for the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator's approvals under 23 CFR 450.320. Section 450.120 of the joint planning regulations requires that the planning process "Include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and services that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons pursuant to section 16 of the UMT Act (49 U.S.C. 1612) and section 165(b) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended." This format is somewhat similar to the Transportation System Management requirements imposed on UMTA projects.

While special efforts are due on behalf of all ambulatory elderly and handicapped persons, service for wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons is the area requiring the most specific guidance. The dominant focus of the planning guidance, therefore, is on service to wheelchair users and the semilambulatory handicapped (persons who cannot negotiate steps or who can do so only with difficulty).

The supplemental statement to the PHWA/UMTA joint planning regulations makes it clear that primary emphasis in the planning process is to be placed on techniques of self-identification, i.e., asking the handicapped to identify themselves and report their transportation needs to the planning body, as opposed to elaborate search techniques. It is expected that the applicants in cooperation with the MPO will produce projects susceptible of early implementation.

The planning guidance further instructs the planning process to pay particular attention to the service needs of concentrations of the elderly, and notes that the service provided to such areas must be shown by the applicant in UMTA grant applications.

Another change from the planning section of the proposed UMTA elderly and handicapped regulations is that a presumption is now stated in the planning guidelines that the participation of elderly and handicapped consumers in the planning and programming process is needed for effective project development.

Criteria in this area by which the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator will make project approvals pursuant to 23 CFR 450.320 are stated in 49 CFR 613.204, which is published in this edition of the FEDERAL REGISTER.

In consideration of the foregoing and under the authority of section 16 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1612), section 165(b) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended (23 U.S.C. 142 nt.), section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 794), and delegations of authority by the Secretary of Transportation at 49 CFR 1.48 and 1.51, the following advisory information is added to the appendix to 23 CFR Part 450, Subpart A.

Effective date: This advisory information is effective upon issuance.

Issued on April 27, 1976.

ROBERT E. PATRICELLI,
Urban Mass Transportation
Administrator.

NORBERT T. TIEMANN,
Federal Highway Administrator.

The following material is added to the appendix to 23 CFR Part 450, Subpart A:

APPENDIX

ADVISORY INFORMATION ON PLANNING FOR ELDERLY AND HANDICAPPED PERSONS UNDER UMTA AND FHWA JOINT REGULATIONS, 23 CFR 450, SUBPARTS A AND C, AND 49 CFR 613, SUBPARTS A AND B

1. Background. Section 16(a) of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1612), declares the national policy that elderly and handicapped persons have the same right as other persons to utilize mass transportation facilities and services; directs that special efforts be made in the planning and design of mass transportation facilities and services so that the availability of mass transportation which elderly and handicapped persons can effectively utilize will be assured; and directs that all federal programs offering assistance in the field of mass transportation contain provisions implementing this policy. Section 165(b) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended, contains a similar provision applicable to title 23 mass transportation assistance.

Pursuant to the planning requirements established for urbanized areas in title 23 and the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, UMTA and FHWA have jointly issued regulations (23 CFR Part 450 and 49 CFR Part 613) that require the urban transportation planning process to include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and services that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons. The purpose of this supplementary statement is to provide additional guidance on the special efforts requirement.

2. General. Elderly persons and the ambulatory handicapped constitute a significant fraction of present transit ridership. General improvement to transit service can thus be expected to improve conditions for these groups. UMTA's equipment design requirements are meant to ensure that transit equipment is made comfortable and attractive for those users.

Particular care should be directed toward serving the travel needs generated by concentrations of the elderly. The service provided to areas with a high proportion of elderly residents is required to be shown in applications to UMTA for capital or operating assistance.

The focus of this guidance is on service to persons who, because of age or disability, are unable to utilize present transit service and facilities effectively, particularly those who use wheelchairs or other mobility aids which are not accommodated by current bus design. In many communities, persons who use wheelchairs or who otherwise have considerable difficulty negotiating steps and public transportation impossible to use for physical reasons, and private transportation-for-hire (e.g., special taxicab service, medicab, etc.) prohibitively expensive. Specific planning for this group is central to meeting the special efforts requirement.

3. Consumer representation. Section 450.120 of the joint planning regulations requires that the planning process include provisions to ensure involvement of the public. Elderly and handicapped persons, including wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons, are a part of the public and should be appropriately involved in the planning process to meet the special efforts requirement. The MPO must describe in what ways such persons, including wheelchair users and semilambulatory persons, were involved in the planning and programming process. Further, it is presumed to be unlikely that effective project development to meet the needs of these users can occur without the assistance and cooperation of such persons, including wheelchair users and semiambulatory persons, and of public and private health and welfare agencies and handicapped consumer groups.

4. Special efforts, urban transportation planning process. The urban transportation planning process must include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and service that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons. As used in this guidance, the term "special efforts" refers both to service for elderly and handicapped persons in general and specifically to service for wheelchair users and semiambulatory persons. With regard to transportation for wheelchair users and others who cannot negotiate steps, "special efforts" in planning means genuine, good-faith progress in planning service for wheelchair users and semiambulatory handicapped persons that is reasonable by comparison with the service provided to the general public and that meets a significant fraction of the actual transportation needs of such persons within a reasonable time period. Particular attention should be given to those handicapped persons who are employed or for whom the lack of adequate transportation constitutes the major barrier to employment or job training.

In order to fulfill the special efforts requirement in planning it will be necessary to identify the location and transportation needs of wheelchair users and semiambulatory handicapped persons within the urbanized area. To the extent possible this information should be derived from existing and secondary sources. Primary consideration should be given to self-identification techniques, i.e., asking the handicapped to identify themselves and report their transportation needs to the planning body, as opposed to elaborate search techniques.

In carrying out planning for wheelchair users and semiambulatory persons, a range of alternative service improvements should be evaluated as to coverage, cost, and benefit. Maximum feasible opportunity should be given to private carriers, whether or not they are presently providing mass transportation services, to provide some or all of the services selected.

Considerable short-term benefit can be derived from the coordination and rationalization of existing resources and services to meet the needs of the elderly and handicapped, including wheelchair users and semiambulatory handicapped persons. Governmental health and welfare agencies and private nonprofit organizations spend substantial sums each year to provide or purchase transportation for their clients, and these resources as well as any reduced fare local taxi service should be considered for inclusion in a local coordinated plan.

Finally, the planning process should produce a discussion of the process under which the alternatives were evaluated and the rationale for selection of the service improvement or improvements.

Title 49—Transportation

CHAPTER VI—URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

[Docket No. 74-03]

PART 609—TRANSPORTATION FOR ELDERLY AND HANDICAPPED PERSONS Transportation for Elderly and Handicapped Persons

On February 26, 1975, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration published proposed regulations regarding transportation for elderly and handicapped persons in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 8314). These proposed regulations codified existing requirements and established new requirements.

Interested persons were invited to submit written comments on the proposed regulations, and 324 such comments were received. In addition, hearings on the proposed regulations were held in April 1975 in Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, St. Petersburg, Boston, and Washington. A great deal of thoughtful although sometimes conflicting advice was received, and the proposed regulations have in many cases been revised to reflect that advice.

The regulations being issued today are final regulations. However, we will be reviewing how well they work in practice, and we welcome comments on these regulations as well as the companion planning and programing material. Comments should be addressed to the Administrator, Urban Mass Transportation Administration, Department of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20590.

One intention of the final regulations is to make regular transit service more accessible to the large number of ambulatory elderly and handicapped persons. This goal is widely supported by the individuals and organizations that commented, in writing or in person, on the proposed regulations.

In addition to the above goal, the final elderly and handicapped regulations and the companion planning and programing guidance have the goal of increasing significantly the level of service for wheelchair users and other persons who cannot negotiate steps. In this area, the comments on the proposed regulations revealed substantial disagreement over the best type of service for wheelchair users—accessible fixed route service, with or without accessible feeder service, demand-responsive van or small-bus service, subscription service, subsidized shared-ride taxi service, or some combination of these or other services. Given present knowledge, we cannot say that one of these services or even one combination is best for all communities. In fact, it is likely that site-specific planning and tailoring of appropriate services will always be necessary. We say this with full appreciation of the psychological and rehabilitation advantages of integrating wheelchair users into regular as opposed to specialized transit service.

While UMTA considers that particular approaches must be determined locally (with significant participation by local wheelchair users), we also feel that concrete examples of appropriate levels of effort are helpful. Accordingly, the companion planning and programing documents to these regulations contain supplementary guidance on the planning and programing which must be accomplished in order to continue receiving UMTA assistance. By way of example the guidance includes specific quantitative measures of satisfactory local efforts to serve wheelchair users.

One of the examples in that guidance involves equipping new buses with level change mechanisms to permit access by wheelchair users. Through our Transbus program, important research and demonstrations on wheelchair access to full-size buses have already been conducted, and we are making available additional research and development funds to American transit bus manufacturers to develop the wheelchair accessibility package for their respective buses. Although no manufacturer of full-size transit buses presently offers a lift or ramp option for its buses, the new bus designs that are about to come on the market could offer that technology.

At least one major transit operator wants to buy wheelchair-accessible buses, and UMTA feels that it is important that competition among manufacturers not be influenced by the presence or absence of a wheelchair option in different buses. Accordingly, for these new bus designs, UMTA will insist that manufacturers offer as an option a wheelchair accessibility package consisting of a level-change mechanism, sufficient front or rear door and passageway clearances to permit the wheelchair to reach a securement location in the bus, and at least one wheelchair securement device.

Although the wheelchair accessibility option requirement is settled, the issue of whether UMTA should mandate a low-floor bus is not settled. The floors of current transit buses are approximately 34 inches above street level. After testing prototypes, the Transbus program produced a specification calling for a 22-inch floor. However, substantial questions have arisen about the costs and benefits of a mandated 22-inch floor height requirement. One bus manufacturer wants to discuss the possibility of a 29-inch floor, with a kneeling feature to lower the floor five additional inches. In order to receive advice on the floor-height issue, and on the question of when to make the wheelchair accessibility option and the 8-inch architectural steps requirements effective, UMTA will hold a public hearing on May 5, 1976, and accept written comments submitted before May 14, 1976. UMTA intends to issue a decision on the above issues within 30 days after the time period for submitting comments has elapsed. These matters are difficult, and we would like to receive a full presentation by the interested parties before a decision is made.

Details on the time and place of the hearing, the precise issues to be discussed, the availability of background documents, and advance registration were published at 41 Federal Register 15735, April 14, 1976. A copy of the notice is available by writing the Director, Office of Public Affairs, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, Department of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20590, or by calling that office at (202) 426-4043.

In the context of the above presentation of our general policies, specific provisions of the final regulations can be addressed. The following comments concern particularly changes from the proposed regulations and the public comments on the proposed regulations.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Definitions. UMTA received many thoughtful public comments on the definition of "handicapped persons" as it appeared in the proposed regulation. Some commentators thought that we should adopt subclassifications of handicapped people in order to specify the service to be provided to each classification; others thought that the definition should conform to the usage of other agencies concerned with the disabled. The definition is, however, drawn directly from section 165(b) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended (23 U.S.C. 142 nt.) and section 16(d) of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1612(d)). We see no basis on which to tamper with the statutory definition. On the other hand, it is clear that the focus of section 16 is on providing service to those elderly and handicapped persons who cannot now effectively utilize mass transportation, so we have joined the definitions of "elderly" and "handicapped" into a single category of persons who, because of age or disability, are unable without special facilities or special planning or design to utilize mass transportation facilities and services as effectively as persons who are not so affected.

The definitions of "level-entry" and "step-entry" vehicles have been deleted since the final regulation speaks in terms of the conventional categories of buses, rapid rail vehicles, and light rail vehicles.

Applicability. The regulations are applicable to nonhighway mass transportation capital, operating, and planning assistance projects approved on or after May 31, 1976, under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, or title 23, United States Code (highways). These constitute the vast majority of federally-funded mass transportation projects.

Some comments suggested expanding this coverage to research, development, and demonstration projects and to facilities and equipment in projects that have been approved but which have not yet resulted in contracts for procurement of equipment or construction of facilities.

We believe that fixed standards based on the state of the art are inappropriate for research and development projects, which are frequently undertaken in order to advance the state of the art and to which the general public will not have access. However, UMTA does sponsor some research and demonstration projects that are intended to bring new technology and techniques to regular revenue transit service. We will evaluate such projects on a case-by-case basis with a view toward applying these regulations where such application is consistent with the purpose of the project.

We agree with the commentators who suggested that those equipment and facility standards that are within the state of the art should become effective as rapidly as possible after publication of the rule. Therefore, except where UMTA has already concurred in specifications, both the equipment and facility design standards will become effective with the first procurements carried out under UMTA-assisted projects on or after May 31, 1976. Even before issuance of this regulation it has been UMTA policy not to concur in specifications for new rail rapid transit facilities unless the facilities are accessible to wheelchair users.

The applicability section has been revised to make it clear that only title 23 projects requiring the approval of the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator are covered by these regulations.

Planning. The planning process for urbanized areas is subject to joint UMTA-Federal Highway Administration regulations (23 CFR Part 450, 49 CFR Part 613). UMTA's policies on planning and programming for elderly and handicapped persons are expressed in material being published simultaneously with the elderly and handicapped regulations. That material consists of joint UMTA-FHWA advisory information on planning for elderly and handicapped persons, a new regulation on additional criteria for project approvals by the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator under 23 CFR 450.320(a) (3), and advisory information on the latter programming regulation.

Fixed facilities. A number of commentators took issue with paragraphs 609.15 (a) through (c) of the draft regulations; however, the language of the proposed rules followed the language of the General Services Administration implementing P.L. 90-480, and we have continued to follow that language in the final regulation. The paragraphs have been renumbered in the final rule. Paragraph (b) in the final regulation includes the special requirements that UMTA has imposed on rail facilities because the ANSI standards are not tailored to transportation facilities. We have augmented these requirements in the final rule in response to comments received.

Section 609.13(b) (1) is a new provision which directs that careful attention be given to the location and number of elevators or other vertical circulation devices in designing new underground or elevated transit stations in order to minimize the extra distance which wheelchair users and other persons who cannot negotiate steps may have to travel compared to nonhandicapped persons. Because of the variety of possible station designs, we are unprepared to specify a definite extra distance beyond which the wheelchair user must not be made to travel.

Although paragraph 609.13(b) (2) is slightly revised from the proposed version, this paragraph continues to require that the fare collection system have a clear opening sufficient for wheelchair users. New words make coverage of the fare vending system clear.

Paragraph 609.13(b) (3) is unchanged except that the specific maximum gap between boarding platform and vehicle in the proposed rule has been replaced with a more general requirement. The very narrow gap allowed by the proposed regulations proved too narrow within current technology to allow for safe movement of trains within the station area. Our research and development office is looking into this matter of the gap, which at present is 3 to 4 inches on the most advanced systems being built.

The proposed requirement for automobile stopping areas for handicapped persons has been deleted because the ANSI standards provide reserved parking places for handicapped persons. The benefit associated with the UMTA requirement appeared marginal.

The proposed requirement for station information systems has been deleted because of the variety of station configurations and possible methods of conveying information. Nevertheless, station builders are encouraged to give particular attention to the information needs of blind persons and deaf persons. Many very fine comments that we received on passenger information systems are properly addressed in the context of an aggressive marketing program and will be pursued in UMTA's transit management program.

Many comments concerned the applicability of the regulations to the renovation of existing facilities. The regulations cover renovations, but careful attention should be paid to section 609.13 (c) (2), which describes the scope of renovation coverage. More than one comment expressed concern that a renovation like repainting would require that an elevator be added to an old station. Clearly the regulations contain no such requirement.

Vehicles. The proposed rules set out a series of specific hardware and design requirements that were included primarily to promote discussion about their feasibility and reliability. In the preamble to the proposed rules, we recognized that some of the equipment was not yet available commercially, and we wanted to solicit comment on "appropriate effective dates" for some hardware requirements "in view of the product development process that would be required."

We received voluminous comments on the proposed vehicle features from manufacturers, transit operators, elderly and handicapped users, governmental agencies, providers of service and other interested parties. In the proposed rules we had deliberately suggested vehicle modifications that we understood to be beyond the state of the art, or that we thought might be beneficial to elderly and handicapped users without knowing their effect on other users and on operations. The comments that we received were thoughtful and helpful. Many comments suggested further bus design features that would unquestionably improve passenger comfort for a wide range of individuals, but the cumulative inclusion of which would excessively increase the price of buses. The final rule has therefore sought to focus on those features of bus design that are more than marginally important to the ability of elderly and handicapped persons to utilize the equipment effectively.

Similarly, since most of these rules are to be effective immediately with re-

as to the current generation of buses, we generally decided against the inclusion in the final rule of design requirements that require extensive redesign or engineering modifications that would result in large cost increases or delays in availability.

The organization of the vehicle requirements has been changed to reflect standard mass transit terminology rather than the "level-entry" and "step-entry" categories used in the proposed rule. The categories now are: bus, rapid rail, light rail, and "other vehicles." The "rapid rail" category does not include commuter rail vehicles. Commuter rail operations occupy a unique and financially precarious position in urban transportation, and are entering a particularly difficult period of transition as a result of the restructuring of the railroads in the Northeast and Midwest. The future of these systems is unsure, and few new rail cars are being built solely for commuter rail service. Therefore, any new commuter rail vehicles will be included in the "other vehicles" category, and requirements will be determined on a case-by-case basis. Because of the great variety of equipment in the small bus (22 feet and shorter) and van category, such vehicles will also be included in the "other vehicles" section.

(1) Applicability of vehicle requirements. Several comments on the proposed regulations expressed confusion over the effective date of the vehicle requirements. The effective date provisions have been rewritten to indicate clearly that the vehicle requirements apply to all vehicles for which an UMTA grantee issues, on or after May 31, 1976, a formal procurement solicitation containing vehicle specifications approved by UMTA.

(2) Wheelchair accessibility option. As discussed earlier, the regulations include a requirement that manufacturers of new design transit buses offer a wheelchair accessibility option. The latter option consists of a level-change mechanism (e.g., lift or ramp), sufficient clearances to permit a wheelchair user to reach a securement location, and at least one wheelchair securement device. UMTA intends to determine the effective date for this requirement after the May 5, 1976, hearing described above. The option requirement is not meant to require retrofitting of existing buses or retooling of production machinery which will be used to continue to produce existing bus designs.

(3) Doorways and steps. The proposed rule suggested interlock systems at both front and rear doors of buses. Many comments objected to the proposed front door interlock system for buses because such a system would prevent the present useful practice of opening the door as the bus comes to a stop. Because that argument has merit and because the bus driver can easily see the front door area, we have deleted the front door interlock requirement. We have also deleted the rear door interlock requirement because we find that requirement only marginally related to making vehicles more accessible to elderly and handicapped persons.

The proposed rule would have required devices that prevent closure on any person or object in the doorway (sensitive-edge or elevator-type doors). Many comments objected to this requirement for buses on the grounds that such doors are unnecessary, expensive, and subject to frequent breakdowns. Because of the merit in these arguments and because we ultimately decided that sensitive-edge doors make only a marginal contribution to utilization of the vehicle by elderly and handicapped persons, we have deleted any suggestion that the regulations require sensitive-edge doors for buses.

Door control mechanism requirements for rail vehicles have been deleted entirely in deference to the research directly on this issue currently being conducted by the Federal Railroad Administration. The results of this research may form the basis for an amendment to the regulations.

The proposed regulations called for a redesign of the stepwell of the current bus so that, with the addition of a retractable step, the maximum height of each step from street level to vehicle floor level would be uniform and no more than eight inches. We invited comment on an appropriate effective date for this requirement in view of the product development that would be required.

The comments were not encouraging. The retractable step at the front of the bus would interfere with ground clearance and was thought to be unreliable in bad weather. Moreover, information developed in the Transbus program indicated that transit buses will pull up to curbs roughly 80 percent of the time, and the average curb is six inches, reducing the need for the retractable step. While there are vastly different operating circumstances in various cities, any national rule should be geared to the typical situation, and we have thus receded from our requirement of a retractable step.

Eight-inch risers proved equally discouraging on the current coach. The distance from the floor of the bus to the lowest step is currently between 19 and 21 inches, which necessitates two steps. Although three rather than two steps could be designed within this height, the stairwell would have to be extended another 11 inches toward the driver in order to accommodate the tread of the extra step. Such an additional intrusion would increase the already-substantial hazard created by the long, narrow stairwell of current design, and would reduce safe standing space within the vestibule. We have been forced to conclude that the provision of eight-inch risers inside the current bus is inconsistent with other safety features that are of equal importance to the elderly and the handicapped (transit safety statistics indicate that the typical accident occurs in the front of the bus to a female passenger over age 50).

Therefore, the final regulations do not include the proposed step height requirements for current generation buses. However, we feel that substantial improvements in the front stepwell can be made on the next generation of buses, and we have required that those buses have front step risers which do not exceed 8 inches in height—approximately the same accessibility standards as are applied to buildings. We have yet to determine the proper effective date for the requirement, and, therefore, section 609.15(c) of the regulation leaves open the effective date, subject to resolution after the public hearing described earlier.

The door width requirement for rail cars has been changed to 32 inches, which is the standard for barrier-free buildings. The rail door width requirement has also been changed to apply only to side doors. We learned that since rail car doors are built with vertical collision posts next to the end doors, increasing the width between these points could decrease a car's ability to withstand a collision.

The warning signal requirement for level-entry vehicle doors has been retained for rapid rail and light rail vehicles, but the regulations require only an audible signal. Such a signal will aid visually impaired persons.

For level-entry rail systems, the specific maximum gap between vehicle and boarding platform has been replaced with a more general requirement. The very narrow gap allowed by the proposed regulations proved too narrow, given present technology, to allow safe movement of trains within the station area. Our research and development office is looking into this issue.

(4) Priority seating signs. The requirement for priority seating signs for elderly and handicapped passengers was one of the more controversial parts of the original proposed regulations. Many comments, both from elderly and handicapped groups and from transit operators, argued that priority seating constituted a form of segregation that detracted from the dignity of elderly and handicapped passengers. On the other hand, several comments stated that priority seating was a good concept and that elderly and handicapped patrons should be given priority on any seat in the vehicle.

We feel that priority seating serves a useful purpose by promoting the safety of elderly and handicapped persons. The act of claiming a priority seat is voluntary, and a person entitled to do so is also free to sit anywhere else on the vehicle. We have improved the phrasing of the requirement in order to allow signs which encourage but do not require the yielding of priority seats to elderly and handicapped persons. The regulation is not intended to prohibit more strongly worded signs.

(5) Interior handrails and stanchions. Because of vandalism, cleanliness, and maintenance problems, many comments strongly opposed the proposed requirement that all handrails and stanchions be padded. Because we are not certain that the safety benefits of padded handrails and stanchions outweigh these problems, and because some have suggested that such stanchions may actually be more difficult to grasp, we have deleted the padding requirement. However, we encourage transit operators to consider modest padding on stanchions and handrails at the front of the bus, where a disproportionate number of injuries occur and where the driver's proximity may reduce vandalism.

The requirements for ample stanchions and handrails, particularly in the entrance area, have been significantly strengthened. This revision includes a new requirement for buses and step-entry light rail vehicles that a system of continuous passenger assists be provided which will allow elderly and handicapped persons to make use of such assists throughout the boarding and fare collection process. The key element of this system would be a handrail or stanchion reachable from outside the vehicle to aid elderly and handicapped passengers at the boarding point. It is also required that this system include a "leaning rail" adjacent to the farebox which a passenger can lean against to remain stable while paying the fare. We find that providing such assists in proper locations is very important in making vehicles more accessible to elderly and handicapped persons.

(6) Floor and step surfaces. We continue to require slip-resistant floors and step surfaces, and in addition we now require that all step edges have a band of bright contrasting color(s) running the full width of the step. Most present floors and step surfaces meet the slip-resistant requirement, and we have included the requirement primarily to emphasize the importance of slip-resistant surfaces as safety factors for elderly and handicapped persons.

(7) Lighting. The proposed regulations' general interior illumination requirement has been deleted because we find that, from a safety viewpoint, buses being manufactured today provide satisfactory general interior illumination.

However, we believe that lighting standards for stepwells and for street surfaces outside vehicle doorways are appropriate, and the final regulations contain such standards. The problem we seek to correct is too little light, and thus our lighting standards are minimums.

(8) Fare collection. The fare collection requirement for buses has been rewritten to emphasize that the farebox should be located as far forward in the vestibule of the bus as possible. Because of the number of different fare payment methods in use on existing light rail systems, we have not included any farebox location requirement for light rail vehicles.

(9) Other proposed requirements. We have deleted the requirement for a public address system because of our doubts about our ability to require drivers to utilize such systems as well as uncertainty about the wisdom of the requirement, particularly for exterior public address systems. We have also changed the destination and route sign provisions. We received a great number of comments regarding the sign provisions, especially regarding the appropriate size for sign characters. Most of the controversy concerned whether the size requirement should be written in terms of a specific height requirement, as in the proposed regulations, or as a readability, performance standard. While a performance standard appears to be more acceptable because it would allow greater local choice on sign questions as well as allow technological innovation, we do not feel that enough study has been done on the development of a reasonable standard. UMTA may conduct research on this issue, and, if possible, adopt future standards based on such research.

Waiver. Comments on the waiver section fell generally into two distinct groupings. One group feared that the waiver section would negate the positive effect of the regulations and, therefore, wanted the waiver section deleted or severely restricted. Because of possible unforeseen consequences of particular provisions of these new regulations, we have retained the broad waiver capability. However, we intend to make very sparing use of the waiver provision, as indicated by the standard in the regulation which provides that the waiver must be "clearly necessary" and consistent with the intent of the laws authorizing this rule.

The second group of comments argued that the waiver provision was too strict because of the requirement that the waiver request be presented at a public hearing. These comments recommended that the requirement of presentation at a public hearing be made optional at UMTA's discretion since the need for a waiver may not develop until after submission of the project application and after the public hearing. As a result of this second group of comments we have indicated that submission at the hearing is the norm, and that the UMTA Administrator may require a new public hearing for discussion of the waiver request if he finds that it is substantial.

Finally, we have moved the waiver section to a more logical location after the positive requirements, and we have added a new sentence to reflect the need for the Administrator of General Services' approval for any waiver of paragraph 609.13(a).

Accordingly, 49 CFR Chapter VI is amended by adding a new Part 609, to read as set forth below.

Effective date. This part becomes effective on May 31, 1976.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on April 27, 1976.

ROBERT E. PATRICELLI,
Urban Mass Transportation
Administrator.

§ 609.1 Purpose.

The purpose of this part is to establish formally the requirements of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) on transportation for elderly and handicapped persons.

§ 609.3 Definitions.

As used herein:
"Elderly and handicapped persons" means those individuals who, by reason of illness, injury, age, congenital malfunction, or other permanent or temporary incapacity or disability, including those who are nonambulatory wheel-chair-bound and those with semi-ambulatory capabilities, are unable without special facilities or special planning or design to utilize mass transportation facilities and services as effectively as persons who are not so affected.

§ 609.5 Applicability.

(a) This part, which applies to projects approved by the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator on or after May 31, 1976, applies to all planning, capital, and operating assistance projects receiving Federal financial assistance under sections 3, 5, or 9 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1602, 1604, or 1607a), and nonhighway public mass transportation projects receiving Federal financial assistance under: (1) subsection (a) or (c) of section 142 of title 23, United States Code; and (2) paragraph (4) of subsection (e) of section 103, title 23, United States Code. However, under certain circumstances evident in sections 609.13 through 609.21, the latter sections apply to fixed facilities and vehicles included in projects approved before May 31, 1976. Sections in this part on capital assistance applications, fixed facilities, and vehicles apply expressly to capital assistance projects receiving Federal financial assistance under any of the above statutes.

§ 609.7 Transportation planning in urbanized areas.

General requirements for transportation planning in urbanized areas are found in joint UMTA-Federal Highway Administration regulations (23 CFR Part 450 and 49 CFR Part 613). These regulations require the urban transportation planning process to include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and services that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons. UMTA and PHWA have added a supplementary statement on the special efforts requirement as an appendix to the joint planning regulations. Satisfactory special efforts in this area is an express condition (49 CFR 613.204) for UMTA project approvals required by 23 CFR 450.320, and UMTA has added a supplementary statement on that requirement as an appendix to 49 CFR Part 613.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

§ 609.9 Transportation planning in non-urbanized areas.

Before a capital assistance project can be approved in a nonurbanized area, the local planning process must include special efforts to plan public mass transportation facilities and services that can effectively be utilized by elderly and handicapped persons.

§ 609.11 Applications for capital or operating assistance.

Applications for capital or operating assistance shall include assurance(s) and descriptive material on transportation for elderly and handicapped persons in accordance with current application instructions.

§ 609.13 Fixed facilities.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this section, every fixed facility—including every station, terminal, building or other facility—designed, constructed, or altered on or after May 31, 1976, with UMTA assistance, the intended use for which will require either that such fixed facility be accessible to the public or may result in the employment therein of physically handicapped persons, shall be designed, constructed, or altered in accordance with the minimum standards in the "American Standard Specifications for Making Building and Facilities Accessible to, and Usable by, the Physically Handicapped, Number A117.1—R 1971," approved by the American Standards Association, Inc. (subsequently changed to American National Standards Institute, Inc.) (ANSI).

(b) In addition to the ANSI standards of paragraph (a) of this section, the following standards apply to rail facilities covered by that paragraph:

(1) Travel distance for wheelchair users: In designing new underground or elevated transit stations, careful attention should be given to the location and number of elevators or other vertical circulation devices in order to minimize the extra distance which wheelchair users and other persons who cannot negotiate steps may have to travel compared to nonhandicapped persons.

(2) International accessibility symbol: The international accessibility symbol shall be displayed at wheelchair accessible entrance(s) to buildings that meet the ANSI standards.

(3) Fare vending and collection systems: Transit fare vending and collection systems shall be designed so as not to prevent effective utilization of the transportation system by elderly and handicapped persons. Each station shall include a fare control area with at least one entrance with a clear opening at least 32 inches wide when open.

(4) Boarding platforms: All boarding platform edges bordering a drop-off or other dangerous condition shall be marked with a warning device consisting of a strip of floor material differing in color and texture from the remaining floor surface. The design of boarding platforms for level-entry vehicles shall be coordinated with the vehicle design in order to minimize the gap between platform and vehicle doorway and to permit safe passage by wheelchair users and other elderly and handicapped persons.

(c) The standards established in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section do not apply to:

(1) The design, construction, or alteration of any portion of a fixed facility which need not, because of its intended use, be made accessible to, or usable by, the public or by physically handicapped persons;

(2) The alteration of an existing fixed facility to the extent that the alteration does not involve the installation of, or work on, existing stairs, doors, elevators, toilets, entrances, drinking fountains, floors, telephone locations, curbs, parking areas, or any other facilities susceptible of installation or improvements to accommodate the physically handicapped (the standards do not apply to the unaltered portions or items of an existing fixed facility);

(3) The alteration of an existing fixed facility, or of such portions thereof, to which application of the standards is not structurally possible; and

(4) The construction or alteration of a fixed facility for which a grantee has, prior to May 31, 1976, issued a formal invitation for bids to perform such construction or alteration.

(d) The final project application for any project that includes the design, construction, or alteration of a fixed facility subject to paragraph (a) of this section shall contain one of the following: (1) an assurance that the standards of paragraph (a) of this section will be adhered to in the design, construction, or alteration of such facility; (2) a request for a finding that the project is within one of the exceptions set out in paragraph (c) of this section (the specific exception being identified), with appropriate supporting material; or (3) a request pursuant to section 609.25 for waiver of the standards of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, with appropriate supporting material.

§ 609.15 Buses.

(a) The requirements of this section apply to all new transit buses with a length exceeding 22 feet for which an UMTA grantee issues, on or after May 31, 1976 (unless otherwise noted), a formal procurement solicitation containing vehicle specifications approved by PMTA.

(b) Wheelchair accessibility option: Effective [date reserved for later completion], UMTA will concur in transit bus bid packages only if the technical specifications provide for a bus design which permits the addition of a wheelchair accessibility option and if the bid documents require an assurance from each bidder that it offers a wheelchair accessibility option for its buses. The term "wheelchair accessibility option" means a level-change mechanism (e.g., lift or ramp), sufficient clearances to permit a wheelchair user to reach a securement location, and at least one wheelchair securement device.

(c) Steps: The following standards are effective with procurement solicitations issued after [date reserved for later completion]: the vertical distance from a standard 6-inch curb to the first front door step shall not exceed 8 inches; the riser height for each front door step after the first step up from the curb or street level shall also not exceed 8 inches; and the tread depth of steps at both front and rear doors shall be no less than 12 inches.

(d) Priority seating signs: In order to maximize the safety of elderly and handicapped persons, each vehicle shall contain clearly legible sign(s) which indicate that seats in the front of the vehicle are priority seats for elderly and handicapped persons, and which encourage other passengers to make such seats available to elderly and handicapped persons who wish to use them.

(e) Interior handrails and stanchions:

(1) Handrails and stanchions shall be provided in the entranceway to the vehicle in a configuration which allows elderly and handicapped persons to grasp such assists from outside the vehicle while starting to board, and to continue using such assists throughout the boarding and fare collection processes. The configuration of the passenger assist system shall include a rail across the front of the interior of the vehicle which shall serve both as an assist and as a barrier to reduce the possibility of passengers sustaining injuries on the fare collection device or windshield in the event of sudden deceleration. The rail shall be located to allow passengers to lean against it for security while paying fares.

(2) Overhead handrail(s) shall be provided which shall be continuous except for a gap at the rear doorway.

(3) Handrails and stanchions shall be sufficient to permit safe on-board circulation, seating and standing assistance, and unboarding by elderly and handicapped persons.

(f) Floor and step surfaces: (1) All floors and steps shall have slip-resistant surfaces.

(2) All step edges shall have a band of bright contrasting color(s) running the full width of the step.

(g) Lighting: (1) Any stepwell immediately adjacent to the driver shall have, when the door is open, at least 2 footcandles of illumination measured on the step tread.

(2) Other stepwells shall have, at all times, at least 2 footcandles of illumination measured on the step tread.

(3) The vehicle doorways shall have outside light(s) which provide at least 1 footcandle of illumination on the street surface for a distance of 3 feet from all points on the bottom step tread edge. Such light(s) shall be located below window level and shielded to protect the eyes of entering and exiting passengers.

(h) Fare collection: The farebox shall be located as far forward as practicable and shall not obstruct traffic in the vestibule.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

(4) Destination and route signs: Each vehicle shall have illuminated signs on the front and boarding side of the vehicle.

§ 609.17 Rapid rail vehicles.

(a) The requirements of this section apply to all new rapid rail vehicles for which an UMTA grantee issues, on or after May 31, 1976, a formal procurement solicitation containing vehicle specifications approved by UMTA.

(b) Doorways: (1) Passenger doorways on vehicle sides shall have clear openings at least 32 inches wide when open.

(2) The international accessibility symbol shall be displayed on the exterior of each vehicle operating on a wheelchair accessible rapid rail system.

(3) Audible warning signals shall be provided to alert elderly and handicapped persons of closing doors.

(4) Where the vehicle will operate in a wheelchair accessible station, the design of vehicles shall be coordinated with the boarding platform design in order to minimize the gap between the vehicle doorway and the platform and to permit safe passage by wheelchair users and other elderly and handicapped persons.

(c) Priority seating signs: In order to maximize the safety of elderly and handicapped persons, each vehicle shall contain clearly legible sign(s) which indicate that certain seats are priority seats for elderly and handicapped persons, and which encourage other passengers to make such seats available to elderly and handicapped persons who wish to use them.

(d) Interior handrails and stanchions: (1) Handrails and stanchions shall be sufficient to permit safe boarding, on-board circulation, seating and standing assistance, and unboarding by elderly and handicapped persons.

(2) Handrails, stanchions, and seats shall be located so as to allow a wheelchair user to enter the vehicle and position the wheelchair in a location which does not obstruct the movement of other passengers.

(e) Floor surfaces: All floors shall have slip-resistant surfaces.

§ 609.19 Light rail vehicles.

(a) The requirements of this section apply to all new light rail vehicles for which an UMTA grantee issues, on or after May 31, 1976, a formal procurement solicitation containing vehicle specifications approved by UMTA.

(b) Doorways: (1) Passenger doorways on vehicle sides shall have clear openings at least 32 inches wide when open.

(2) The international accessibility symbol shall be displayed on the exterior of each vehicle operating on a wheelchair accessible light rail system.

(3) Audible warning signals shall be provided to alert elderly and handicapped persons of closing doors.

(4) The design of level-entry vehicles shall be coordinated with the boarding platform design in order to minimize the gap between the vehicle doorway and the platform and to permit safe passage by wheelchair users and other elderly and handicapped persons.

(c) Priority seating signs: In order to maximize the safety of elderly and handicapped persons, each vehicle shall contain clearly legible sign(s) which indicate that certain seats are priority seats for elderly and handicapped persons, and which encourage other passengers to make such seats available to elderly and handicapped persons who wish to use them.

(d) Interior handrails and stanchions: (1) On vehicles which require use of steps in the boarding process, handrails and stanchions shall be provided in the entranceway to the vehicle in a configuration which allows elderly and handicapped persons to grasp such assists from outside the vehicle while starting to board, and to continue using such assists throughout the boarding process.

(2) On level-entry vehicles, handrails, stanchions, and seats shall be located so as to allow a wheelchair user to enter the vehicle and position the wheelchair in a location which does not obstruct the movement of other passengers.

(3) On all vehicles, handrails and stanchions shall be sufficient to permit safe boarding, on-board circulation, seating and standing assistance, and unboarding by elderly and handicapped persons.

(e) Floor and step surfaces: (1) All floors and steps shall have slip-resistant surfaces.

(2) Any step edges shall have a band of bright contrasting color(s) running the full width of the step.

(f) Lighting in step-entry vehicles: (1) Any stepwell immediately adjacent to the driver shall have, when the door is open, at least 2 footcandles of illumination measured on the step tread.

(2) Other stepwells shall have, at all times, at least 2 footcandles of illumination measured on the step tread.

(3) The vehicle doorways shall have outside lights which provide at least 1 footcandle of illumination on the street surface for a distance of 3 feet from all points on the bottom step tread edge. Such lights shall be located below window level and shielded to protect the eyes of entering and exiting passengers.

§ 609.21 Other vehicles.

Requirements for vehicles not covered by sections 609.15, 609.17, or 609.19 will be determined by UMTA on a case-by-case basis as part of the project approval process.

§ 609.23 Reduced fare.

Applicants for financial assistance under section 5 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1604), must, as a condition to receiving such assistance, give satisfactory assurances, in such manner and form as may be required by the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator and in accordance with such terms and conditions as the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator may prescribe, that the rates charged elderly and handicapped persons during non-peak hours for transportation utilizing or involving the facilities and equipment of the project financed with assistance under this section will not exceed one-half of the rates generally applicable to other persons at peak hours, whether the operation of such facilities and equipment is by the applicant or is by another entity under lease or otherwise.

§ 609.25 Waiver.

The requirements set forth in this part may be modified or waived on a case-by-case basis upon application to the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator if the Administrator determines that such modification or waiver is clearly necessary and is consistent with the intent of the laws cited under "Authority." However, a modification or waiver of paragraph 609.13(a) for a building covered by P.L. 90-480 will also require the approval of the Administrator of General Services. Any request for modification or waiver should be presented for comment at the public hearing required prior to submission of a project application to UMTA. In the event that the waiver is not presented at the hearing, the Urban Mass Transportation Administrator may require a new public hearing if he finds that the requested waiver would have a substantial effect on the accessibility of the facility or equipment to elderly and handicapped persons.
